about gastritis and angina pectoris and baseball, but he did call her
"Dear absent one." He did say, "I would rather have your love than a diploma," and he did write "I am no better satisfied with the distance between us than you are, and if I isn't born choice it must be destiny."
The day ended with Fulton trying hard to get into the present record

Florence Davis of Washington to the effect that Miss Garmong, who roomed at the Davis house in 1919-11, following the birth of little Mary, had a job and was working at it.

Fulton's purpose was to contradict Mrs. Davis' testimony at the present trial that Miss Garmong had said to her that, having "form, beauty and passion," she would "never work with her hands."

The court ruled that, Mrs. Davis having testified and left for home and Mr. Fulton having had his opportunity to cross-examine her, he could not permit the insert desired from the record of the preceding trial.

FARRAR AT HER BEST IN PUCCINI'S "TOSCA"

By FREDERICK JOHNS.
TOSCA, Puccini's passionate operation of Bardone's famous tragedy, was performed at the Boston Opera last night by the Metropolitan.

Geraldine Farrar appeared as Tosca, and her performance was one which she has made for us
of the Metropolitan.
Scotti performed his celebrated part of Scarpia, and his Tosca, rendered from the Italian edition of Saturday last, was excellent.
Another very large audience was present, a testimonial to the fact that "Tosca" has been no effort to repeat success to last night of the drawing powers
of the Metropolitan.

SCOTTI SCARPIA
WHOLLY SATISFACTORY.
Tosca, as it was conducted

Tosca was just such a woman as Puccini was a composer of great power, a composer of great power. It is easy to imagine Tosca, but it is not so easy to imagine Scarpia. In any event, the music of "Tosca" is in fact the most effective in a theatrical

THERE WAS ANOTHER LARGE audience at the opera last

as that of the previous evening.

WILSON TO OPEN CAMPAIGN BY SPEECH
By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
Washington, April 12.—President Wilson will, unless plans are changed at the last moment, make his first real political speech of the 1916 campaign tomorrow night. He is to be the chief guest at the dinner tendered by the Common Council Club of Washington to the Democratic National and State Committees.

National Chairman McComb and all the big men in the Democratic party are to be on hand, and it is known that the President plans to make a sharp reply to his chief critics in the Republican and Progressive parties.

The national committee arriving here today say the Baltimore ticket of Wilson and Marshall will be O. K'd at St. Louis in June. Marshall is looked upon as likely to be greatly needed on the ticket in Indiana, where the fate of two United States senators will hang in the balance.

One month ago the President made it clear that he was flatly opposed to authorizing any public buildings in the present state of the nation's finances.

Representative Frank Clark of Florida, chairman of the House Public Buildings Committee, today made the statement that his committee would report a public building bill to the House within a short time. He further asserted that he was convinced that the House would pass such a measure despite the President's opposition.

For centuries all over the world GOLD MEDAL Harlem Oil has afforded relief in thousands upon thousands of cases of lumbago, rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, and all affections of the kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder and all organs. It acts quickly. It does the work. It cleanses your kidneys and purifies the blood. It makes a new man, a new woman of you. It frequently wards off attacks of the dread and fatal disease of the kidneys, which often completely cures the distressing diseases of the organs of the body allied with the bladder and kidneys. Bloody or cloudy urine, sediment or "brick-dust" indicate an unhealthy condition.

Don't make the fatal mistake of neglecting what may seem to be a "minor" little backache. There isn't any such thing. It may be the first warning that your kidneys are not working properly, and showing of the poison as they should. If this is the case, go after the cause of that backache and do it quickly, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease. Do not delay a minute if you are sore across the loins or have difficulty when urinating. Go to your druggist at once and get a box of imported GOLD MEDAL Harlem Oil Capsules. They are pleasant and easy to take. They dissolve in the stomach and the kidneys soak up the oil like a sponge does water. They thoroughly cleanse and wash out the bladder and kidneys and throw off the inflammation which is the cause of all the trouble. Your druggist will tell you the truth. Your money if you are not satisfied after a few days. Accept only the pure, original GOLD MEDAL Harlem Oil Capsules.

"PORK BARREL" REVOLT IN CONGRESS

By International News Service.

Washington, April 12.—A brand new congressional revolt against the administration confronting President Wilson today. This time Congress wants what has been termed "pork," and some members are determined to have it, no matter what the President may say about it. Within a few weeks the House will be presented with a public buildings bill authorizing the construction of about $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 worth of federal buildings.

No One Can Blame the Babies of Germany for the War, Yet They Are Deprived of Milk Because of the War

IF there is anything that demands the attention of the neutral white race, it is the plea of the Germans for milk for German babies. The Germans say that the babies in Germany are being deprived of milk—a baby's elemental sustenance—as a consequence of the war.

These babies are, of course, innocent of any responsibility for the war. Neither by omission or commission can any guilt be charged to them. They are white babies, Christian babies, belonging to a race and a nationality that has upheld civilization.

In the fearful race suicide which is now devastating Europe there is just one hope for the white race in the inevitable future struggle to maintain a white and Christian civilization against the yellow races of the East. That hope is in the babies of the Christian peoples who are now killing each other.

No one, not even their bitterest enemies, has ever denied that the Germans are a very important element in Christian civilization. Concerning the worst contention of their enemies that their government was guilty of starting this war and that their military power is a danger to the peace of the world, yet as individuals, no one has ever denied their honesty, their industry, their intelligence, their efficiency and their virility. Everybody admits that, aside from their militarism, they have made the most important contributions of all the European peoples to Christian civilization during the last forty years.

They have led the world in scientific achievements. They have led the world in their co-operative effort toward efficiency. They have led the world in the amelioration of the workmen and the poor. They have led the world in the development of the best use of the soil. They have led the world in the development of universal education as the basis of national strength, service and happiness.

Under all the circumstances, their commercial and industrial development has been greater in the last forty years than that of any other people on earth. Individually they are law-abiding, loving, sentimental and gentle. They saved our Union in the Civil War by their adherence to the side of freedom and their prompt and generous offer of service in the ranks of the Northern armies. In the struggle for the survival of the fittest between the East and the West, we need to preserve the life and health of every German baby.

Even if there were no impending struggle between two opposing civilizations, we ought to save these innocent German babies, "for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Tonight, at 8 o'clock, at Tremont Temple, there is to be a public meeting for the purpose of discussing the question of getting milk to the German babies. We all ought to attend this meeting if we can.

Our American Grand Opera Is Incomparable

THE Metropolitan Opera Company is now in the full swing of its Boston season.

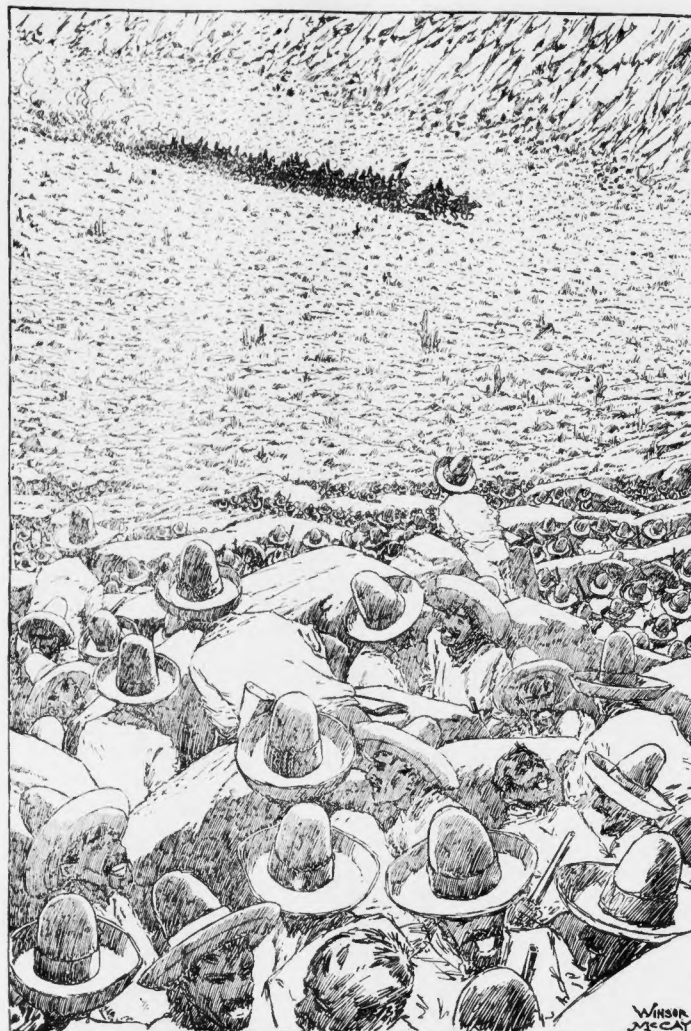

How many people realize what it costs in effort and money to produce grand opera like the grand opera of the Metropolitan? Before the great European war only three other cities in the world enjoyed grand opera as wonderful as that given by the Metropolitan Opera Company. Even these three great music-loving cities of Europe had nothing like the equipment, the orchestras, chorus, scenery and other necessary accessories which set off an opera and give its scenes reality and atmosphere.

Today, of course, our American grand opera is incomparable. To give it as it is being given in Boston involves transportation from New York to Boston of more than four hundred persons, principals, orchestra, chorus, ballet, business and stage staff, electricians, mechanics, property and wardrobe people. Every day for a week before the arrival of the company a large number of baggage cars come from New York with the paraphernalia of the company. It took six weeks to prepare for the first opera.

Those who attend the opera this season will see the greatest of musical performances. Those who can afford it cannot spend money for recreation, pleasure and instruction to a better advantage. We need to support grand opera because we need to be a metropolitan city. We need to break out of what Charles Francis Adams in his memoirs called our handicapping provincialism.

"LET'S hog-tie this dangerous demagogue, boys,"

Cried Runt with ecstatic acclaim.
"He will struggle and fight, but we'll do the job right
And put him clear out of the game."

We'll purge our great party of all of his crew;

Call Penrose and all of the gang.
And when I give the sign, get the bouncers in line,
And give him the gate with a bang."

And 'round the old party the word passed along
And all of the faithful hoisted in on the song:

"Wipe up the floor with him; out of the door with him;
Sneak him when Penrose says 'Ready!'
Down with the hideous, basely insidious,
Doubly perfidious
Toidy."

Oxygen, Great Life Fuel Garrett P. Serviss Says May Soon Have New Uses

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I HAVE read that when the time comes that oxygen can be recovered cheaply from the air, when it can be had for the mere cost of pumping it out of the air, it will be the equivalent, in a sense, of finding a food for the human race lying everywhere, in all seasons and climates, where we, without endeavor, would only have to reach out and pluck sustenance. That sounds well; what can you tell us about it?"—E. L."

It is a splendid dream, but how it could be realized I do not know. Oxygen is often called "the life-supporting element." It is the fuel that keeps the fire of life burning in our bodies. In that sense it is already the food of foods, and our lungs, which take it in, constitute our greater stomach. We can live a week or several weeks without the other kinds of food that we use, but we could not live five minutes without oxygen.

If some Azael, running amuck in space, should encounter the earth, and wounding the thin air with malicious stabs, let out all its oxygen, the whole living world would drop and die in its tracks.

Yet this wonderful aerial food cannot be consumed unmitigated. It is, as I have said, a food. To breathe nothing but pure oxygen would be like emptying a barrel of kerosene on a kitchen fire. In an atmosphere of pure oxygen human life would run like a released watch spring!

Both Heat and Energy Are Produced by Oxygen

As we breathe it, it is mixed with four times its own volume of nitrogen, and this mixture reduces the combustible power of the oxygen as it enters our blood through the membranes of the lungs to such a degree that the heat produced suffices only to raise the temperature of the body to about 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Thus the oxygen-heated blood warms the whole body, according to Professor Huxley's comparison, "as a house is warmed by a hot-water apparatus." And he adds: "Nor is it alone the heat of the body which is provided by this oxidation; the energy which appears in the muscular work done by the body has the same source."

How one would proceed to make a true food out of oxygen, if it could be had in unlimited quantities, I am unable to say. But already we can obtain oxygen from the air in large quantities by the Linde process, which resembles that for producing liquid air.

A ton of oxygen can be recovered in this manner at the cost of burning a ton of coal. That, of course, does not mean that the price of a ton of oxygen is the same as that of a ton of coal, or anything like it, for the cost of the coal used is only the beginning of the expense, but the total cost can be kept down to a commercial basis.

Oxygen is a most important constituent of every sort of food that we eat, since it combines with all kinds of elements and constitutes nearly a half of the entire crust of the earth and about eight-ninths of the weight of water. It might be possible for chemists, having a cheap supply of pure oxygen constantly on hand, to build up food-stuffs which would render us independent of the natural supply of such things, and even to make better foods than nature gives us. But that remains to be proved.

But, independent of any such possible use, the oxygen which we are now able to obtain, either from the air or from some of its solid compounds, is of great importance in industry, in the arts and sciences and in medicine.

A certain quantity of pure oxygen can be breathed, substituting its tendency to overaccelerate the vital processes, and this fact makes it invaluable in resuscitating persons whose heart action has been almost, or quite, arrested. Thus it is a powerful auxiliary to the surgeon. The lives of dying persons have been prolonged by its use. It has been administered to exhausted boxers, football players, runners and other athletes.

Mountain climbers, according to great altitudes, where the proportion of oxygen in the air is below the average, sometimes carry bags or tanks of oxygen along, to be breathed when their powers begin to fail. For the same reason it is carried by aeronauts going to great heights, and lives have been saved in this way.

It is utilizable, in a similar manner, in submarines and in the work of divers. Some wonderful things have been accomplished by submarine oxygen-breathing devices, which have enabled divers to operate where the ordinary diving apparatus could not be used. A most dramatic instance of this occurred as long ago as 1880, when the Severn tunnel, then in course of construction in England, was suddenly flooded by accident.

Immense Usefulness of Free Supply of Oxygen

It was found impossible to pump out the water unless an iron door that had been left open could be reached and closed. All efforts to reach the door, which lay at the end of a passage more than a thousand feet long, and filled with forty feet depth of water, failed until a diver, furnished with an oxygen-breathing apparatus, but entirely cut off from the air above, made his way through the tunnel, climbing over upturned cars and other obstacles, and shut and fastened the door, after removing some rails which had become jammed in it, and prevented its closing. He did not breathe pure oxygen, but an apparatus on his back supplied oxygen to the air inside his water-proof jacket, while caustic soda absorbed the carbonic acid from his lungs.

These things suggest the immense range of usefulness that a plentiful supply of free oxygen would have, even if it furnished us with nothing new to eat or to drink.

In-Shoots

This affinity business can never be a one-sided affair.

The grass widow would not be so perpetrate if she did not always have such a good memory.

When a good looking girl smiles at an old fossil he usually feels strong enough to go out and join the boys in a ball game.
